ABSTRACT

This directory is intended to provide foreign language educators as well as persons interested in foreign languages and cultures with a convenient reference guide containing information on the availability of resources and services that can help enrich classroom instruction and independent study. Two major sources of information and services for the teaching of English as a second language have also been included: TESOL and the English language division of the British Council Central Information Service. This second edition of the directory has three new features: (1) a greatly expanded language index, now covering publishers and distributors as well as organizations; (2) more than 40 new organizations, many of them NDEA centers; and (3) several organizations involved in international student exchanges or study programs. The directory is divided into three sections: (1) foreign language service organizations; (2) publishers and distributors of foreign language materials; (3) the language index. Suggestions on how to use the directory are provided at the end of the introduction. (MES)

LANGUAGE IN EDUCATION: THEORY AND PRACTICE

ERIC (Educational Resources Information Center) is a nationwide network of information centers, each responsible for a given educational level or field of study. ERIC is supported by the National Institute of Education of the U.S. Department of Education. The basic objective of ERIC is to make current developments in educational research, instruction, and personnel preparation more readily accessible to educators and members of related professions.

ERIC/CLL. The ERIC Clearinghouse on Languages and Linguistics (ERIC/CLL), one of the specialized clearinghouses in the ERIC system, is operated by the Center for Applied Linguistics. ERIC/CLL is specifically responsible for the collection and dissemination of information in the general area of research and application in languages, linguistics, and language teaching and learning.

LANGUAGE IN EDUCATION: THEORY AND PRACTICE. In addition to processing information, ERIC/CLL is also involved in information synthesis and analysis. The Clearinghouse commissions recognized authorities in languages and linguistics to write analyses of the current issues in their areas of specialty. The resultant documents, intended for use by educators and researchers, are published under the title Language in Education: Theory and Practice.* The series includes practical guides for classroom teachers, extensive state-of-the-art papers, and selected bibliographies.

The material in this publication was prepared pursuant to a contract with the National Institute of Education, U.S. Department of Education. Contractors undertaking such projects under Government sponsorship are encouraged to express freely their judgment in professional and technical matters. Prior to publication, the manuscript was submitted to the American Council on the Teaching of Foreign Languages for critical review and determination of professional competence. This publication has met such standards. Points of view or opinions, however, do not necessarily represent the official view or opinions of either ACTFL or NIE. This publication is not printed at the expense of the Federal Government.

This publication may be purchased directly from the Center for Applied Linguistics. It also will be announced in the ERIC monthly abstract journal Resources in Education (RIE) and will be available from the ERIC Document Reproduction Service, Computer Microfilm International Corp., P.O. Box 190, Arlington, VA 22210. See RIE for ordering information and ED number.

For further information on the ERIC system, ERIC/CLL, and Center/Clearinghouse publications, write to ERIC Clearinghouse on Languages and Linguistics, Center for Applied Linguistics, 3520 Prospect St., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20007.

*From 1974 through 1977, all Clearinghouse publications appeared as the CAL-ERIC/CLL Series on Languages and Linguistics. Although more papers are being added to the original series, the majority of the ERIC/CLL information analysis products will be included in the Language in Education series.

INTRODUCTION

Purpose

This directory is an expanded and updated version of the Directory of Foreign Language Service Organizations, which was published by the Center for Applied Linguistics and the ERIC Clearinghouse on Languages and Linguistics in May 1978. It is intended to provide foreign language educators with a convenient reference guide containing information on the availability of resources and services that can help them enrich classroom instruction. It is meant to be useful as well to all persons who are concerned with the study or advancement of foreign languages and cultures. Two major sources of information and services relating to the teaching of English as a second language have also been included--Teachers of English to Speakers of Other Languages (TESOL) and the English Language Division of the British Council Central Information Service (formerly the British Council English Teaching Information Centre).

New Features

This second edition of the directory has three new features: (1) a greatly expanded language index, now covering publishers and distributors as well as organizations; (2) more than forty new organizations, many of them NDEA centers; (3) several organizations involved in international student exchanges or study programs.

Organization

The directory is divided into three sections: Foreign Language Service Organizations, Publishers and Distributors of Foreign Language Materials, and the Language Index. Organizations and publishers/distributors offering services or materials related to specific languages may be located in the index under the language itself or under such broader terms as "Foreign Languages, General," "Uncommonly Taught Languages," "African Languages," "East European Languages," etc.

How to Use the Directory

This directory may help the reader in several ways. For example, a teacher of Italian may want information on Italian culture. The index should be consulted under "Italian" for organizations and publishers focusing specifically on this language. Or a school may want to develop a new Spanish curriculum and would like to provide inservice training for teachers after the curriculum is adopted. The list of publishers indicates those that offer inservice training. Individual organizations may also be checked under "services" to identify those that provide consultant services.

We welcome suggestions for future additions to the directory and have provided a form on page ix for that purpose. Please note, however, that the only academic language-teaching programs that we include are those that offer community outreach services to teachers and students of foreign languages.
